DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed April 27, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
2. Applicant argues that the Erickson patent does not disclose a single signal to activate one tap to insert a corresponding delay into a PLL because it inserts each individual delay element into the delay path by a separate, corresponding control element. However, the claim requires a single signal to activate one of a plurality of taps, implying another signal to activate another of a plurality of taps. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., a single signal to insert all the delay elements in a delay path) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
4. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Erickson (US 5,815,016 previously cited).

Claims 1, 8 and 14.

Art Unit: 2611

Erickson describes a phase locked loop (see Fig.1) and programmably adjusting the phase of a reference signal (at input terminal 11), comprising; a digital feedback delay line (VCDE) having a plurality of taps (21, 22, 23) cascaded from an input to an output with each of the taps having a fixed delay and tap selection logic (24,25,26) coupled to the delay line for delivering a single signal to active one of the plurality of taps, thereby inserting delay into the PLL, wherein the corresponding delay could include fixed delays associated with a multiple of the plurality of taps.

Additionally regarding claim 14, Erickson describes a system clock and a plurality of interconnected modules having a PLL for synchronously communicating with each other. See col. 1, lines 18-62.

Claims 2, 9 and 15.

Erickson shows that each of the taps comprises a multiplexer.

Claim 3, 10 and 16.

Erickson shows that the multiplexer is a 2:1 input multiplexer.

Claims 4, 5, 11, 12 and 17 and 18.

Erickson shows an embodiment where the number of taps is three. However, since this is an exemplary embodiment, Erickson actually teaches any number of taps, thus reading on at least four taps or 32 taps.

Claims 6, 13 and 19 .

Art Unit: 2611

Erickson shows that the corresponding delay results from the fixed delays associated with the activated tap and adjacent taps between the activated tap and the output. See col. 5, lines 4-12.

Claims 7 and 20.

Though not illustrated, the control element 24,25 and 26 comprises a register since in a digital device, the control word is stored in a register before it is delivered.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
